Manager Comment

Consumer inflation in the United States (US) increased marginally in February compared to January. In March, US President Donald Trump imposed tariffs on steel and aluminum imports to all countries. Chinese officials introduced a special plan to boost the economy and are considering various measures to stabilise the Chinese stock market. The UK economy unexpectedly contracted in January after growing in December, increasing pressure on the government to stimulate economic growth. On the domestic front, the US issued an executive order to immediately suspend funding for the President's Emergency Plan for AIDS Relief (PEPFAR) to South Africa (SA).

Developed market (DM) equities recorded their second consecutive fall in March, with the MSCI World Index ending the month at -4.45%, pushing them into negative territory for the first quarter of 2025. US megacap tech stocks were amongst the worst performers, resulting in a significant drop in the Bloomberg Magnificent 7 Index. Tariffs continued to weigh on investor sentiment, as March started with confirmation that Trump would push ahead with tariffs on Canada, Mexico and China. Emerging market (EM) equities performed better in the month than DM equities, ending positively at 0.67% month-on-month (m/m) in US dollars. Global property was in negative territory at -2.16% m/m, but global bonds were in positive territory at 0.62% m/m, both in US dollars. The FTSE Index lost -2.25% m/m in pounds from a previous monthly gain. The Euro Stoxx 50 Index ended in negative territory for the month at -3.80% m/m and the S&P 500 was the biggest detractor for the month at -5.63% m/m. The Dow Jones Index ended the month in negative territory at -4.06% m/m in US dollar terms, along with the Nikkei at -3.38% m/m in yen.

South African equity markets ended the first quarter on a positive note. The FTSE/JSE All Share Index gained 3.55% m/m, despite turmoil in global equity markets. Industrials and Property were both in negative territory at -2.17% m/m and -0.90% m/m respectively. Resources was the biggest gainer for the month, at 18.37% m/m. Financials and Cash were both in positive territory at 0.18% m/m and 0.64% m/m respectively. The bond market was positive for short-term bonds but negative for long-term bonds, with the FTSE/JSE All Bond Index ending the month positively at 0.19% m/m. Bonds of 1-3 years were positive at 0.80% m/m along with bonds of 3-7 years at 0.97% m/m. Bonds of 7-12 were positive at 0.41% m/m, but bonds of 12 years and above were at -0.12% m/m. The rand strengthened against the US dollar by 0.98% m/m but weakened against the euro by -2.78% m/m. It weakened against the pound by -1.49% m/m.
