	High real cash yields are again attractive, with rising risks in other asset classes. Reinvestment risk is limited by a delayed cutting cycle.	Healthy real yields available in SA cash.	Bonds and Equities offer better value	Money market yields unattractive relative to long term bond yields. Rate cutting cycle to place pressure on cash returns.	Cash yields have improved globally and we have a higher allocation to cash than previously. However, in most markets, superior returns may still be earned from bonds.
	Positive	Positive	Positive	Positive	Positive
	Good value in SA bonds but persistent fiscal and political risks likely to sustain discount. Attractive running yield even without capital gain.	The longer end is particularly attractive, given the steepening of the curve. We do not view SA bonds as a risk-free asset, though. Need to manage exposure.	Compelling yields but risks and global rate uncertainty driving continued volatility Long-term SA economic constraints will keep pressure on yields	Attractive yields relative to cash and inflation. Positive real returns expected.	SA fixed income – high real yields and an asymmetric return profile support SA fixed income. On a risk-adjusted basis, SA govt bonds (with an approximate 15% expected return) remain attractive. Higher expected returns from domestic bonds offering attractive yields compensate for the additional implied risk, given the country's fiscal position.
	Neutral	Neutral	Neutral	Neutral	Negative
	Persistent undervaluation from rising rates and Covid-induced office oversupply offers a long- term opportunity but needs turn in rates cycle.	Property fundamentals seemed to have stabilised. Still need to work through impact of higher funding costs.	Interest rates outlook supports property following significant weakness. Global macro- economic uncertainty and local constraints pose risk.	Fundamentals in property sector stabilising while valuations appear attractive. Rate-cutting cycle positive for future property distribution growth and NAV.	Negative macroeconomic investor sentiment and high interest rates have dominated sector performance, both positive and negative. The recent strong share price performance in the sector in Q4 2023 was supported by expectations of interest rate cuts in 2024. The sector in general looks challenged to us given the strong performance in Q4 2023, with vacancies and negative reversions still a concern.
	Neutral	Positive	Neutral	Positive	Neutral
	Attractive valuation in SA equity in general but earnings momentum remains tepid on soft commodity cycle and slow domestic growth.	SA remains cheap, although growth and quality not exciting. Remain selective and underweight poor quality.	SA valuations still compelling, however there are risks in certain sectors, given global macro- economic uncertainty.	Large number of attractively valued opportunities. Preference is for strong balance sheets, predictable cash flows and resilient business models. Significant upside potential in domestic-facing holdings is partially dependent on sustained economic recovery and policy reform.	Despite evidence of easing inflation and a likelihood of easing interest rates in 2024, higher market volatility, driven by national elections, and poor economic growth are still a threat to markets. Load shedding is expected to have a smaller impact on businesses as many have acquired additional energy sources at additional cost in 2023. Exposure to the domestic economy is primarily gained through the banking sector, with Absa our preferred pick The banks in 2023. Exposure to the domestic economy is primarily gained through the banking sector, with Absa our preferred pick The banks continue to grow their earnings in a tough environment and have had a relatively benign experience of bad debts on their loan books.

	Asset Ma	nager Views ABAX	♥ Truffle	bateleur Capital	glacier i n v e s t
l	Positive	Positive	Global Positive	Neutral	Positive
Cash	Attractive hedge for rand assets while we wait for better entry points in risky assets	Attractive nominal rates in dollars, with no duration risk.	Returns are elevated compared with the last decade. Capital protection is desirable in current environment.	Money market yields relatively attractive and ahead of inflation.	We are overweight in offshore cash and have a small overweight to offshore fixed income, which is focused on short duration assets.
	Neutral	Neutral	Neutral	Positive	Positive
Bonds	Competitive returns for the first time in years but still some risk of a more persistent positive term premium being priced.	Investible for first time in many years. 2% real yields highest in 20 years.	Real yields becoming more reasonable at this level. Continued volatility and uncertainty.	Short term Treasury yields attractive, fund continues to hold two-year US Treasuries. More cautious on longer duration bonds.	US 10-year yielding returns of between 4% and 5%. The potential for rate cuts in the latter half of the year should benefit US Treasuries.
	Negative	Negative	Neutral	Negative	Negative
Property	In general still a period of higher rate resets ahead for developed real estate. However, specific opportunities can be found.	NAVs need to adjust to reality. US and UK better than Europe. Higher funding costs will hurt.	Interest rate outlook supports property, however property has rerated. Global macro-economic uncertainty poses risk.	No allocations to global property, given uncertainty over property valuations and LTVs.	Higher yields internationally remain a headwind for international property
	Negative	Neutral	Negative	Neutral	Negative
Equity	Downside risk to 2024 earnings expectations is a market headwind, with multiples having reverted to well above average.	Beta looks stretched, especially in the US. Companies have not yet felt the full impact of higher rates/lower liquidity on profits. A lot of value exists outside large index stocks. Many good businesses are 30% or more off their recent peaks.	US expensive. Japan offering value. Rest of world in fair value territory.	Valuations are above trend and concerns remain around corporate profit margins and earnings growth expectations. However, large investible universe provides ample opportunities. Holdings centred around 4 key themes: 1) defensive, stable cash generators; 2) companies exposed to structural growth industries at reasonable valuations; 3) select recovery stocks; 4) quality companies with compounding abilities.	Although the Magnificent Seven have run, their PE valuations are not overly stretched relative to history (27x), given the stellar growth outlook. The equally- weighted S&P at 16.5x is also in line with its long-run average, with 20% earnings growth forecast this year. Elections globally but particularly in the US are a wild card, and likely to drive some volatility. The S&P at 19.7x is at the higher end of its historic range and has had a strong run. We are reluctant to add offshore equity exposure in this environment.

	Positive	Positive	Neutral	Positive	Negative
Cash	Cash offers attractive real rates. Yields on government Treasury Bills remain above bank deposit rates, given increased weekly government debt issuance in the	High yield.	Although cash does not protect investors against inflation, it provides the safety of capital preservation – at least in nominal terms – while giving us liquidity to invest when opportunities arise. We have some domestic cash available to re-deploy.	Higher short interest rates have driven the expected real returns from short-term interest-bearing instruments to above trend.	As expected by the market, the SARB kept its repo rate steady at 8.25% for its third consecutive policy meeting. However, risks to the inflation outlook remain. We added to our SA cash holdings but, given our very underweight position at the start of the quarter, our house-view portfolios remained tilted away from SA cash.
	Neutral	Positive	Neutral	Positive	Positive
Bonds	SA government bonds offer attractive nominal and real yields, but downside risks are elevated as severe macroeconomic challenges and funding pressures persist. Despite the recovery in the local bond market in 2023, long-duration fixed-rate bond returns have been lacklustre, highlighting the importance of diversified fixed interest exposure across floating- rate paper and inflation-linked bonds.	Despite poor market outlook, high starting yields and steepness of the yield curve make valuation attractive.	We maintain a healthy allocation to SA bonds which have an attractive yield underpin. There is some concern about SA fiscal slippage.	The yields on nominal bonds remain above trend and continue to offer strong real returns. We currently favour nominal bonds over inflation-linked bonds, given break-even yields.	In the quarter, we sold some of our overweight holdings in SA nominal bonds, taking profit into the rally over the period. We maintained our significant preference for these assets in our house-view portfolio, as we continue to believe SA nominal bond valuations are more attractive than other fixed income assets and compared with their own longer- term history. They will more than compensate investors for their associated risks over time.
	Neutral	Neutral	Positive	Neutral	Negative
Property	Valuations have become attractive, but the difficult operating environment and challenging macroeconomic conditions are likely to persist. We continue to look at select opportunities but there is no urgency to allocate, given sector headwinds and better opportunities in other asset classes.	While the medium-term outlook for the property sector remains constrained, double-digit dividend yields on certain stocks are attractive.	A lower interest rate environment should support both the rating and earnings stories for property. Fundamentals appear to have bottomed for all sectors, although the office market is expected to remain at the lows for longer.	We remain neutral on local property and, given the risk to valuations, continue to hold protection on a large portion of our exposure.	We further lowered our underweight exposure in SA listed property by selling into the sector's good performance. Property sector risks remained high relative to other sectors, while cash yields have become more attractive. We still prefer exposure to non-property shares that we believe offer better value propositions for less risk.
	Positive	Positive	Neutral	Positive	Positive
Equity	Attractive value in select well managed SA businesses and locally listed global companies. Both "rand hedges" and "SA Inc" offer attractive opportunities and should provide reasonable returns in a range of macroeconomic scenarios.	SA equities offer attractive return prospects and diversification away from a tough domestic economy, given the high offshore exposure of many JSE-listed companies. Portfolio holdings include global stocks listed on the JSE and selected resources and domestic stocks. Domestic stocks offer good stock- picking opportunities. But avoiding value traps is critical.	While it remains our preferred asset class over the longer-term, near-term risks remain. Deteriorating fundamentals due to failing infrastructure have prompted downgrades in earnings expectations, which in some cases provide, in our view, a decent low entry base.	Local equities continue to trade at a large discount to intrinsic value, informing an expected return that is above trend. We continue to hold an overweight position in local equities, with some downside protection, should any sharp corrections occur.	Our house-view funds still favoured SA equities at the end of Q4 2023, although we took some risk off the table by selling into the quarter's rally and using the proceeds to buy global equities and increase our SA cash holdings. SA equity valuations (as measured by the 12-month forward price/earnings ratio of the FTSE/JSE Capped SWIX Index) rose to 10X from 9.5X at the beginning of the quarter.

			GLOBAL
	Positive	Neutral	Neutral	Neutral	Negative
Cash	US dollar short term rates are attractive, however higher inflation may erode some of this buying power. Provides a decent return on our hedged equity exposure which is useful, given the elevated risk of market drawdowns.	High interest rates but favour other asset classes.	Although cash does not protect investors against inflation, it provides the safety of capital preservation – at least in nominal terms – while giving us liquidity to invest when opportunities arise. We have some offshore cash available to re-deploy.	We continue to underweight foreign cash, given the expected returns from alternative assets.	We remain tilted away from global cash, preferring other global asset classes (such as global bonds).
	Neutral	Positive	Positive	Neutral	Positive
Bonds	Shorter-duration, fixed income instruments remain attractive. There are compelling corporate bond issues with decent returns on offer.	High yields offered by corporate credit, as yields blew out early in 2023 amid mini-banking crisis. No sovereign exposure due to concerns of indebtedness, despite attractive yield.	We actively increased our exposure to developed market bonds in the second half of 2023, which supported returns as recessionary risks increased. While we maintain a healthy allocation to SA Bonds, which have an attractive yield underpin, we took advantage of the mid-year rally and converted some holdings to cash, which is yielding an attractive risk-free return.	The rerating of US Treasuries has raised the nominal yields slightly above trend. The real returns on offer from foreign bonds remain insufficient to warrant an overweight in our balanced funds. The foreign bond allocation in our absolute return funds have started to tilt towards US Treasuries.	Within global bonds, November's sharp rally offered an opportunity for us to take profits on our holdings of 30-year US Treasuries, UK gilts and German bunds, thus reducing our overweight position in global bonds.
	Negative	Neutral	Positive	Positive	Neutral
Property	We remain cautious on global property, given current valuations and gearing levels, with interest rates likely to stay higher for longer.	Dynamic of improved interest rate outlook vs. long-term debt repricing still a balancing act. Rebasing of physical asset pricing at the tail-end of its cycle.	A lower interest rate environment should support both the rating and earnings stories for property. Fundamentals appear to have bottomed for all sectors, although the office market is expected to remain at the lows for longer.	We remain positive on certain subsectors of the foreign property market.	We do not have strong enough conviction on fundamentals at this stage to justify a departure from the current neutral positioning.
	Positive	Positive	Neutral	Neutral	Neutral
Equity	Global markets continue to be dominated by the announcements and actions of central banks, and expectations around those actions, rather than fundamentals. Global equity markets were again dominated by large-cap US technology stocks, namely the 'Magnificent Seven'. In 2023, the MSCI World Index was up 24%, the S&P 500 up 26% and the tech- heavy Nasdaq was up 45% (in dollars). While global markets are still expensive on aggregate, we continue to find attractive opportunities in unloved idiosyncratic business trading at cheap valuations.	Our overweight position contributed to performance, however the extent of the market recovery in 2023 means that further upside in global equities will have to come from stock picking. Consequently, we have moderated the global equities position to reflect the likelihood of lower returns in the future.	In the context of a restrictive liquidity environment, potential benefits from the expansion of valuations will probably be limited, particularly in certain developed markets, considering lofty base valuation levels.	We continue to favour emerging market equity over developed markets and still hold some protection on a portion of our foreign equity exposure.	In the quarter we moved from slightly underweight to slightly overweight global equity on the back of the modest improvement in the interest rate outlook. We remain concerned that US equities remained priced for a perfect "soft landing" outcome in 2024. We have moved only modestly overweight from our previously slightly underweight exposure and remain tilted away from the relatively more expensive US market. Equity markets that we prefer for their cheaper valuations include the UK, Japan, China and other emerging markets.
